Suit Filed Against Nottingham CA

Aiken Slams Leaders Acts In New Battle

A member of the Nottingham Civic Association has filed legal action in Bucks County Court against that organization for operating without by-laws, keeping improper records, holding secret meetings and bringing possible criminal action upon its members.

The action, taken by James A. Aiken, 3636 Meridian drive, Nottingham Village, was filed in Bucks County Court of Common Pleas for the May, 1956 term, still in session.

It asks the court to investigate and determine the nature and character of the association and the legality of its operations.

Defendants Listed

It lists Frank Sheparis and Richard DeLarso, president and vice president of the organization, respectively, as defendants. And it calls for restraint of the defendants from operation until the association has adopted a proper mode of organization.

Aiken requests the court to require the association to produce a full accounting of its funds, to submit all its records and a list of any or all commitments it may have with third parties.

The court is also asked to require the defendants to conduct a proper election of officers pursuant to a set of by-laws duly approved by the membership.

The major portion of the charges read as follows:

"The association operates without any mode of internal organization in that there are no approved by-laws regulating its internal organization, the conduct of its meetings, and the election of its officers. No proper records of funds received by the association's officers are kept. Treasurer's reports are sporadic, vague and uncertain.

"Records of the minutes of the association are inaccurate, and not properly kept. Secret meetings of the officers of the association are held unknown to the general membership. Unknown contractual commitments are made with third parties unknown to the plaintiff and the individual members.

"Public statements have been made by the officers of the said association which have the tendency to subject the plaintiff and the individual members of the association either to tort or contractual liability as well as the possibility of criminal action.

"Election of officers and appointment of committee members are conducted without the benefit of the by-laws, or of any form of internal organization. In general the chaotic operation of said association subjects it to the influence of certain interests unknown to the members and the plaintiff repugnant to the objections of a sound civic association and the public well being of the citizens of Nottingham."

Besides the names of the president and vice president, Millie DiStasio, secretary; E. Morena, treasurer; Carol Outman, trustee, and Jack Syp, trustee, are listed on the filed complaint.

Businessmen Set Talk On Pike Building

Southampton Fears Losses While Road Is Constructed

A special meeting of Southampton businessmen has been called for 8 p.m. Wednesday to discuss means of saving business during the construction of Second Street pike.

The businessmen will get together at Stahl's Chevrolet conference room in an attempt to solve the detour problem, it was announced today by Harry Harding, president of the Southampton Businessmen's association.

"We will discuss the proposed state detour to see if any action can be taken in the interest of the businessmen," said Mr. Harding. State detour plans call for the (Continued on Page 3, Col. 4)

Good Evening!

A week for the Republicans.

Cow Palace party in Frisco should be an interesting meeting even if it does lack the potential fireworks the Democrats manufactured when the Chicago caucus promised to be too chummy.

President Eisenhower off a day or so early for the convention obviously to keep his eye on the success of his boy Nixon and it could be there's more of a fight for the VP slot than now anticipated.

Anyhow, quit cussing politics if you stay up all night. All you've got to do is to flick off the TV.

Well sir, this time a year ago the whole region was mobilized for cleaning up the flood and extending a helping hand to the victims.

Let's just hope there doesn't have to be a repeat this year. Ma Nature can well afford to be a bit benevolent in 1956 after the flood of 1955, the honest-to-goodness hurricane of 1954.

Coolish weather and an occasional sprinkle might welcome after the past few days of very, very warm skies.

As a matter of fact, a solid week of soft, gentle rain wouldn't hurt a thing.

Dodgers win another from the Phils in a thriller and Newcombe records his 19th and it appears that National League race will be a mad scramble right up to finish line.

Hey, what's happened to our Mr. Mantle? He's got to start shoving them over the fences again if he's going to bust that 60 mark.

A college professor says people are smartest at 50. That leaves the gals in a tough spot.

It's easier to live on less when you can find more things to live for.

Southampton School Nears Completion

Lady of Good Counsel Addition Should Be Ready By Christmas

The $256,000 addition to Our Lady of Good Counsel Catholic School, Southampton, is expected to be completed by Christmas, it was announced today.

However, church officials explained this morning that this date is tentative.

The foundation for the school addition is completed, the Rev. Patrick Trainor reported. He anticipates about four more months' work on the project.

At present, no special ceremonies have been planned for the Christmas opening, he reported.

The expansion program will more than double the size of the present school. Six classrooms will be added, in addition to an all-purpose room.

Church officials explained that the all-purpose room will be used to hold mass to alleviate crowded church conditions.

The school has been over-crowded, with about 45 students per classroom.

The first six rooms of the school were completed about two years ago. It is located on Second Street pike and Knowles avenue, Southampton.

Today's Weather

Rather cloudy and cooler today with scattered light showers over south and east portions. Fair and continued cool tonight and Tuesday.

Canada Air Mass Breaks LBC Heat

The leading edge of a cool air pressure zone from Canada hovered over Lower Bucks today, offering relief from the recent heat and uncomfortably high humidity.

Temperatures were expected to be in the mid 70's today and tomorrow in this area following a high of 91 and 88 degrees for Saturday and Sunday.

The Trenton Weather Bureau said the clouds, caused by the mingling of the incoming cool air with the warm air already here, should start to clear this afternoon.

Tonight will be fair and cool with the same predicted for tomorrow. Warm weather is expected to return by Wednesday or later in the week.

The mercury hit 91 about 3 a.m. Saturday but the weather bureau reported it was "far from a record." Yesterday it was a bit cooler, hitting 88 in the mid-afternoon.

Southampton To Register

All new residents of Upper Southampton township, and citizens who have recently reached voting age, are urged to register for voting privileges Wednesday at Flecks Appliance Store, Street road, Southampton.

Bucks County's traveling registrars will be at Flecks from 2 to 9 p.m. that day. Leaders of both parties have urged residents to sign up.

Wednesday's visit will be the only stop in Upper Southampton township for the traveling registrars. If prospective voters are unable to register at that time, they may sign up in Doylestown or in other townships where the registrars are yet to stop.

Lower Southampton residents who failed to register at the Assumption BVM Church, Trevores Heights, last Wednesday may sign up in Upper Southampton this Wednesday.

New Voter Registration

The Bucks County Traveling Registrars are now visiting local municipalities to sign up new voters for the coming November 6, presidential election.

The centers are open from 2 p.m. until 9 p.m. Residents can register at any center, not just those in their own municipality. The registrars will sit at the following places:

TODAY

Upper Makefield Township Building, Woodhill and Eagle roads.

New Britain Borough Public Library.

TOMORROW

Warminster Township Consolidated Public School, Street road.

Milford Township Grange Hall, Spinnerstown.

Former High School Building, Blooming Glen, Hilltown Township.

Players Give Three Shows

Three one-act plays will be presented by the Southampton Players Thursday, Friday, and Saturday nights at the players' barn, Street and Cushman roads, Southampton.

The first play, "Double Date," is a teenage version of the "eternal battle of the sexes," according to Jean Nagler, publicity director.

The cast of this "surprise-ending" play includes Alan Brown, Steve Barsky, Mary Maude Bishop Joan Clayton and Marty Jo Paxson. Besides these teenagers, Lee Barsky and Bob Bishop star.

The other two shows are "Sorry, Wrong Number," and "The Sisters McIntosh." The former was chosen to give a strong element of drama and suspense, explains Miss Nagler. In the cast are Bobby Ermentrout, Linda Lovelace, Alvin Schor, Catherine Johnson, Helen Bookheimer, Fred Schoenbach, Joe Admada, Al Nagler, Estelle Brager, Charlotte Miller, and Miss Nagler.

"The Sisters McIntosh," a comedy about a zany evening in the life of two old ladies, stars Dot Weisser and Jane Peters. Joe Admada is also featured.

King Bros. Circus Plays Burlington

Following a successful "reopening" at Stroudsburg, Pa., the reorganized King Brothers Circus arrived at Burlington today for a one day stand.

Circus officials report they had to turn away crowds over the week end in Stroudsburg.

The circus will have a brand new 100-foot white canvas top for its Burlington showing — the second in its resumed tour.

In addition to the new tent the circus has picked up a number of top acts from other circuses which have folded this summer. The circus had been stranded near Stroudsburg for a month when mechanical and financial troubles overtook it enroute from New England to its Macon, Ga., headquarters.

Survey Sees Him Getting Huge Ballot

SAN FRANCISCO—(UP)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon rolled toward easy renomination today over the wreckage of Harold E. Stassen's drive to knock him off the 1956 Republican ticket.

Several hours before the convention was formally called to order a United Press survey showed that Nixon had sewed up virtually the entire roster of delegates.

Barring intervention by President Eisenhower to insure a real contest, Nixon looked like a shoo-in to win second place on the ticket.

This was the first GOP convention in 24 years to meet with a Republican administration in Washington and the delegates wore an air of confidence that contrasted vividly with the underdog mood that prevailed at Republican conventions during the long pre-Eisenhower draught.

With President Eisenhower's renomination certain and Nixon's virtually so, the delegates settled down to enjoy themselves and to attend abbreviated sessions mixed with entertainment in the huge Cow Palace, usually scene of rodeos and livestock shows.

The opening session was given over to welcoming speeches, by California Gov. Goodwin J. Knight and others, and appeals from congressional campaign chairmen for restoring the GOP to control of Congress. National Chairman Leonard W. Hall, Sen. William F. Knowland of California, the temporary chairman, and Gov. Arthur B. Langlie of Washington, the key-note, will speak tonight.

Arriving Day Early

The White House announced on Sunday that Mr. Eisenhower plans to arrive in the convention city Tuesday night, a day earlier than previously planned.

Stassen, on leave from his job as the President's disarmament adviser, found in that announcement hope that Mr. Eisenhower would act to assure a contest over the vice presidential nomination. But an authoritative source in Washington said the President just didn't want to wait until the convention was almost over to get here.

Stassen tried mightily Sunday to pump some last minute life into his anti-Nixon movement, running from one television appearance to another and finally to a general news conference. He predicted that Mr. Eisenhower will throw the vice presidential contest wide open by giving out a list of five or six "acceptable candidates."

Hall, who has long insisted that 1956 would bring another Eisenhower-Nixon ticket, commented that he would know about such a list if it existed and that he knew of none.

Republicans Step Up To Plate Battery Team Of Ike-Dick Looks Sure

SAN FRANCISCO — (UP) — Confident Republicans streamed down from San Francisco's hilltop hotels to the cavernous Cow Palace today for the ceremonial opening of a four-day national convention which is virtually certain to renominate an Eisenhower-Nixon ticket.

The GOP delegates wore victory smiles on their faces and "Ike and Dick" badges on their lapels. The profusion of the latter was vivid evidence that Vice President Richard M. Nixon had sewed up the support of an overwhelming convention majority for a second tour as President Eisenhower's running mate.

Nixon campaigned right up to the opening gavel of the first session at 2 p.m. to snuff out the last feeble fires of the opposition which Harold E. Stassen sought to muster against him.

Stassen clung to the hope that Mr. Eisenhower would yet throw the race wide open by giving the convention a list of five or six "acceptable" candidates for vice president.

But Nixon's supporters were assured by National Chairman Leonard W. Hall that no such list has been passed down from the White House.

Nixon Assured
Barring direct intervention by Mr. Eisenhower, Nixon had it made. A United Press survey of state delegations gave him a first ballot strength of at least 1,156 out of a possible 1,323 votes.

The only other dispute which threatened the serenity of this convention was settled early today when the platform committee approved a compromise civil rights plank.

The plank as first drafted called for a forthright party pledge to "implement" the Supreme Court's decision on desegregation of the schools. Southern delegations had fought to water it down, warning that a too-tough stand would toss away GOP hopes of repeating President Eisenhower's 1952 breakthrough in four states of the "solid South."

The compromise — not immediately made public — was approved after word passed among delegates that the White House favored some toning-down of the plank.

Platform Vote Tuesday
The convention will act on the Republican platform tomorrow. Oral selection of the ticket, which could be by acclamation is set for Wednesday. The nominees will deliver their acceptance speeches on Thursday evening.

Today's opening session was designed to warm up the delegates for the campaign wars ahead, and the emphasis was strongly on the one contest the Republicans

BEVERLY HILLS UP — Diana Dors, England's blonde bombshell version of Marilyn Monroe, exploded Sunday night in a savage attack on a United Press photographer covering a lavish filmland party at her $175,000 estate.

The British actress joined her husband, Dennis Hamilton, in a wild, kicking, hitting attack on photographer Stewart Sawyer, 32, who they accused of pushing them and two others into a swimming pool.

Witnesses said Hamilton acted "like a tiger" as he knocked Sawyer to the ground and sat on him, beating his bloody face while Miss Dors screamed "unprintable words" and kicked at the photographer's head.

Missing Girl Returns From New York

Comes Back of Own Accord When Hears Of General Alarm

Anna Marie Everek, 17-year-old Tullytown girl, has been found.

Miss Everek, the subject of a general alarm for missing persons, was returned to her home Saturday from New York and Trenton by Tullytown Police Chief John Walterick.

The Everek girl had been missing from her home on Lovette avenue, Tullytown, since 10:30 a.m. Thursday morning. She was last seen at Lori's Bakery, Levittown, where she is employed, police said.

Chief Walterick said Miss Everek told him that she thumbed a ride from the Levittown shopping center to Trenton. She said she bought a train ticket to New York City, where she rented a hotel room, and called her "boy friend," Philip Caughon, 29, of 457 Greenwood avenue, Trenton.

The Tullytown police chief said Mr. Caughon told Miss Everek that he advised her to return home.

Two burglaries in Morrisville over the week-end netted approximately $208.42, police said. About $3 in change was taken from the office of the Penn-Jersey Coal Company, and nine tires valued at $205.42 were taken from the Sun Oil station.

Police said an office window in the coal company had been pried with a large screw-driver or similar instrument and the $3 in change taken from a cigar box in a desk drawer.

A window at the rear of the Sun Oil station was broken and the building entered, police said. The tires were inside the building, police reported.

Officials Plan Three Way Court Appeal

By LYDIA BOGANE
Courier and Times Staff Writer

Falls Township officials are preparing to wage a legal battle against the new Fairless Works assessment which is 4 1/2 million dollars less than they expected it would be.

The 1957 assessment for the township's largest industry is just $300,000 more than last year's. The increase in assessment will bring only $15,000 more tax revenue to the money-famished school district as against the $200,000 increase it would have gotten had the assessment gone up as expected.

Falls Township Supervisor Chairman Milton Berkes said the school board, supervisors, and the Democratic Club would make legal appeals on the assessment figure as soon as possible.

To Fight Ruling
He explained that the Democratic group would base its appeal indirectly on the assessment by fighting the ruling recently handed down by County Solicitor Robert Vallmont. This ruling contended that blast furnaces are tax exempt in fifth class counties. Berkes said this appeal would be a "citizen's appeal."

Berkes declared that township groups had expected the 5 million dollar increase in assessment based on County Commissioner John Welsh's statement in 1953 when he was minority commissioner.

Berkes said at that time Welsh told a group the Steel Works was worth about $25 million. "Since the 1956 assessment was $22,207,770 we felt a fair evaluation this year would bring the plant up at least 5 million more where it should be. There have been many improvements and additions on the plants these past few years," he said.

"At a recent bi-partisan meeting of Falls citizens up at the county office, Welsh told us we would be surprised when the new figures came out. We took this as encouragement," Berkes explained, "that the figure would go way up. We sure were surprised," he said.

He pointed out that the school board was the main township body to feel the effect of the low assessment on the works. The state sets its re-imbursement fraction to school municipalities on the ratio between the real and assessed value of properties. Falls Township has suffered reductions in re-imbursement because the state has placed the real value of the works at $118 million while the county's is only $70 million.

5 Arrested In Stolen Car After Crash

Accident Is One Of Four Serious Mishaps In LBC

Five teenage children were apprehended yesterday on North Radcliffe street, in Edgely, after a stolen car in which they were passengers crashed into a utility pole injuring one of the occupants.

This was one of four serious accidents which occurred on the congested highways throughout Lower Bucks County this weekend.

Concerning the teenagers, Bristol township police today are trying to locate the driver of the vehicle and one of the passengers who left the scene of the accident.

Patrolman Thomas Duffy said the car was reported stolen from a Newark resident.

Both of the runaways, who have been tentatively identified as Andy Black, 16, and Billy Zeller, 16, live in the Trenton area, police said.

Injured Occupant
The injured occupant, a 15-year old Tullytown girl, was treated for neck injuries at Lower Bucks County hospital.

Bristol township CID officers Charles Haines and Wallace Michener are presently investigating whether the occupants knew the vehicle was stolen.

All the teenagers were released in custody of their parents.

Four persons were injured, two seriously, Saturday night, when two vehicles collided on Hulmeville road at Galloway road, Bensalem township.

A witness and companion of Baker's, Frank Scupakus, of Philadelphia, told Falls township police that he and another cyclist, James Bayer, also of Philadelphia, were traveling toward Philadelphia when Baker's cycle hit a soft shoulder and threw him against a roadbank.

The Morrisville ambulance was called to transport Baker to the hospital.

Seeing Levittown

By LYDIA BOGANE

Levittowners are being warned about leaving wallets and money in beach bags, towels, etc. while bathing at the local pools. A Levittown housewife who fell victim to a thief just recently, said she heard the incidents happen pretty often at the pool sites.

Who said Levittown's not a romantic spot! A young couple got married on Saturday, moved into their home that day, and are honeymooning right now on Boston Ivy road, in the Blue Ridge section.

Deadline for signing up in the Miss Levittown contest is tonight. Get those pretty teenage gals to any one of the pools by closing time.

Understand one of the oil companies is having a hard time figuring how to get another gas station at Edgely Avenue and Route 13. They've got five there now where only four corners exist and they're trying for a sixth.

New grocery store will make its debut on the Newportville-Fallsington road approach to Five Points.

THE SECRET'S OUT: We were visiting a Levittown house when a guest complimented the housewife on the clever use of dollies on the back and arms of an easy chair. The family's four year old ran over to the chair, picked up the back dolly and exclaimed: "Yeah, see the big hole it covers under there?"

Officials Plan

(Continued from Page One) of the board would probably be called early this week to put the board solicitor to work on the appeal. Many of the board members have in the past indicated an appeal would be made if the assessment figures were not up to expectation.

Berkes said he would introduce a similar proposal to the supervisors board at a meeting tomorrow night.

The new county assessment figures were released on Wednesday. Any appeals against the figures must be filed in a limited number of days after they have been made public.

School district tax millage in the township is now at its maximum of 50 mills. Despite the limit taxation, school officials are faced with the problem of raising badly needed funds for new schools.

The reduction of state reimbursement the last few years has presented an even dimmer picture to the solution of its financial problems.

Ike, Nixon Battery Seems Sure Thing

Stassen, on leave from his job as the President's disarmament adviser, found in that announcement hope that Mr. Eisenhower would act to assure a contest over the vice presidential nomination. But an authoritative source in Washington said the President just didn't want to wait until the convention was almost over to get here.

Hall, in a welcoming address prepared for delivery at the evening session, summed up the confident mood of the convention about the presidential race.

Hall took delight in agreeing with former President Harry S. Truman's prediction at the Democratic convention last week that Adlai E. Stevenson "can't win."

Agrees With Truman

"There is nothing that we need say about the Stevenson-Kefauver ticket that Harry Truman hasn't already said," Hall told the delegates.

Hall said he rarely agreed with Mr. Truman but has found himself in full accord with the former president in one respect. He then quoted Mr. Truman as saying "Adlai will compromise on fundamental issues" and "Stevenson can't win and he can't carry a single state other than those he carried in 1952."

California Gov. Goodwin J. Knight also welcomed the delegates. Sen. William F. Knowland of California, the temporary convention chairman, and Gov. Arthur B. Langlie of Washington, the Keynoteur, will speak tonight.

Arriving Day Early

The White House announced on Sunday that Mr. Eisenhower plans to arrive in the convention city

Stassen tried mightily Sunday to pump some last minute life into his anti-Nixon movement, running from one television appearance to another and finally to a general news conference. He predicted that Mr. Eisenhower will throw the vice presidential contest wide open by giving out a list of five or six "acceptable candidates."

Hall, who has long insisted that 1956 would bring another Eisenhower-Nixon ticket, commented that he would know about such a list if it existed and that he knew of none.

Stassen has campaigned to displace Nixon with Gov. Christian A. Herter of Massachusetts and has contended that Nixon's renomination would cost the GOP votes Nov. 6. However, Herter will make the nominating speech for Nixon Wednesday.

The action, taken by James A. Aiken, 3636 Meridian drive, Nottingham Village, was filed in Bucks County Court of Common Pleas for the May, 1956 term, still in session.

It asks the court to investigate and determine the nature and character of the association and the legality of its operations.

Area Civic Group Sued By Member

A member of the Nottingham Civic Association has filed legal action in Bucks County Court against that organization for operating without by-laws, keeping improper records, holding secret meetings and bringing possible criminal action upon its members.
